To Fish and Think
The Best Message
Ford's Father's Advice
Pangloss Was Wrong

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1936, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

The President will soon go fishing, not to catch fish, but to formulate plans for his work. Fishing promotes thought; the President needs uninterrupted leisure to decide what to with his 10,000,000 plurality, and his 523 electoral votes against Governor Landon's eight.

Those near the President say he has "no thought of reprisal or oppression and hopes sincerely all the bitterness of the campaign will be forgotten; that the United States may be made 'a richer, freer, happier country.'"

Those that know the President are sure that he means every word of it; he has on his hands work too big to permit any waste of time on little things.

Among thousands of messages from all over the world congratulating President Roosevelt, the best, perhaps, came from Mr. Blum, first Jewish Prime Minister of France.

Mr. Blum, a Radical, but never a Communist, sees in Mr. Roosevelt's triumph proof that nations can still be operated on a basis of old-fashioned democratic majority rule.

Opportunities still exist for those willing to work instead of complaining. Not many years ago a young man and his wife were working at a new idea. He had split an electric wire to get a spark, grounding one wire with the aid of the kitchen sink. His wife poured gasoline, one drop at a time, into a piece of gas pipe arranged as a cylinder. An electric spark ignited the gasoline and the thing actually moved.

The young couple were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford and he was building his own first "gas engine," which still exists. It provided evidence that destroyed an attempt to establish an automobile monopoly.

A little later Henry Ford's father said to him: "Henry, I understand you are building as many as thirty-five of your automobiles a day. Be careful, or you will flood the market. Never create an over-supply."

Since then Henry Ford has built 24,645,000 cars. He built a great many more than a million last year, with no sign of the "over supply" that worried his father, and he will have "run off the line" several thousand more by the time you see this.

In Detroit, you would find it hard to get a room in any hotel today because 8000 Ford agents are gathered to see the new 1937 Ford car. The agents will present to Mr. Ford an old windmill from New England, to be set up in Dearborn Village. Mr. Ford is interested in old mechanical contrivances, old engines, old wind-mills, old carriages, because they demonstrate progress, and he can take any one of them apart, put it together and make it work.

But more important than 24,000,000 cars, is the following incident.

Not long ago Henry Ford and his writer were walking down the long corridor of a New York hotel toward the elevator; at the far end of the corridor Mrs. Ford stood in the doorway of the apartment.

Mr. Ford said, not in his usual tone of voice, "I first met her fifty years ago this month, and if I had met her but 1 should never have amounted to anything."

Voltaire's learned Doctor Pangloss was wrong; it is not true that "all is for the best in the best possible of worlds."

In spite of all our wealth and prosperity, more mothers die here in childbirth, in this country, than in any other "civilized" country in the world.

You know that better conditions are needed in America when you see photographs of the wretched two-room log cabin in the swamp bottomlands where, last Monday, Mrs. James Bridges gave birth to quadruplets.

Two of the quadruplets died soon after birth, happily for them, perhaps, of the illness of twin. Lee Earl Bridges and Ella Pearl Bridges, taken to a hospital, Ella Pearl died on Wednesday. Lee Earl is alive as this is written.

If every newspaper in America would print pictures of that unfortunate mother, the "home" in which she lives with her share-cropper husband, this nation would realize that there is still room for improvement.

France now talks of powerful forts to separate France from Switzerland, in case Germany should come through Switzerland. The "logical French"

WAKEFIELD FATHER FINDS MONOXIDE GAS VICTIM

Bertha L. Crittenden, 19-year-old Simmons College sophomore, killed herself at her home in Fairmont avenue, Wakefield, today.

She arose early dressed for school, went to the garage, closed the doors behind her and started the motor of her automobile.

Her father, Dr. Samuel Wright Crittenden, retired physician, heard the engine running an hour later and found her dead behind the wheel.

Dr. Reuse D. Perley, medical examiner, reported a verdict of suicide.

Dr. Crittenden said he was at a loss to ascribe a reason for his daughter's act.

Recently for a short time she absented herself from classes at Simmons, apparently worried over her health, but she had returned to her studies.

Last night she consulted Dr. Howard A. Bruce, who found her run-down and tired, but suffering from no serious ailment. She was melancholy, he said, however.

Miss Crittenden was a popular member of the class of 1925 at Wakefield High school and an excellent student.

RFC $995,000 TO MEDFORD DEPOSITORS

Borrowing from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for the payment of $995,000 to 18,000 depositors of the closed Medford Trust Company was authorized today by Judge John C. Crosby of the Supreme Court.

The payment of the dividend will take place on or about Dec. 10, in time for use for Christmas shopping.

Depositors in the savings department will be paid 22 per cent of their claims, and commercial depositors will be paid 15 per cent. This will make a total of 72 per cent paid the former, and 25 per cent to the depositors in the commercial branch. With the coming payments, the total paid since liquidation of the Medford Trust Company began will be $2,871,000.

Notices were being put in the mails this afternoon instructing depositors to send in their proofs of claim.

CURLEY AXE TO FALL ON M'SWEENEY

Governor Curley is about to remove Police Commissioner McSweeney and may replace him with Maurice J. Tobin, former chairman of the Boston School Committee, the Boston Evening American learned exclusively this afternoon.

Under the statutes, the police commissioner may be removed for cause as "the good of the service" and cannot demand a hearing such as is the privilege of certain other state officeholders.

Only the consent of the executive council is needed and this body showed yesterday that it is willing to accede to the governor's demands—notably in confirming his brother as member of the state board of tax appeals.

AT ODDS SINCE MAY

The ouster of McSweeney may come as a general surprise to the public, but it is no shock to those close to the governor.

The commissioner and the governor have been at odds since last May. When they broke openly it was generally over McSweeney's refusal to reinstate Boston police strikers.

Tobin, regarded as one of the most brilliant of the younger Democrats has been spoken of as possible mayor of Boston. He has been close to the governor for 15 years.

Governor Curley has 16 other state jobs to fill before the end of his term—not to mention scores of smaller-paying posts—and it was definitely indicated today that few of the incumbents could expect reappointment.

While it is generally conceded that Secretary Edmund Hoy will have the choice of the municipal civil court, the present incumbent, William F. Donovan, is retiring December 1, anyhow.

That post pays $5000 to start, with annual increases of $300 until top of $6500 is attained.

'ARMY OF WOMEN' BEAT REBELS BACK

BULLETINS

Madrid, Nov. 6 (INS)—Twenty-six Spanish airplanes fought to a draw in a thrilling air battle over the center of Madrid this afternoon as bursting shells in the city's streets signalled rapid advance of the rebel armies which now control virtually all the suburbs. Neither side scored a hit in the ten-minute exchange of machine-gun bullets during the air battle.

London, Nov. 6 (INS)—In a dispatch from Lisbon, Reuters today reported the government palace on the Puerta Del Sol and other important buildings in Madrid have been destroyed in a terrific bombardment by rebel troops.

Madrid, Nov. 6 (AP)—The government's "Gates of Madrid" fighters, aided by thousands of armed women battling grimly, were reported to have forced insurgents back through the capital's suburbs this afternoon after Fascist shells had burst in the edges of the city.

Advancing Fascists penetrated to the Madrid side of Carabanchel, which is four miles south of the center of Madrid, only to be thrown back under a heavy bombardment later.

West of Madrid, intense fighting on the Extremadura road was plainly visible from city housetops.

The shells came from a Fascist battery at Alcorcon, eight miles from the capital.

Screams of terror rose from citizens in the streets as the shells exploded.

WOMEN JOIN IN BATTLE

The toll of casualties and property damage inflicted by the insurgent bombardment was not immediately known.

As the shells began crashing into the capital, the streets became deserted as if by magic as pedestrians scuttled into buildings and cellars.

The Fascist bombardment came

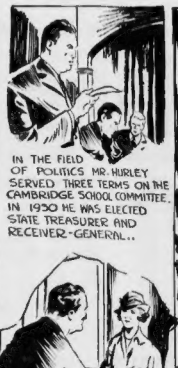
GOV.-ELECT HURLEY PLANS PAY-AS-YOU-GO POLICY



FEDERAL RELIEF GRANTS FIRST ON HIS PROGRAM

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

Governor-elect Charles F. Hurley is a firm believer in the pay-as-you-go policy.

It is his desire to get the state back to this basis at the earliest possible time.

In his first interview since his election at his home in Cambridge, the governor-elect declared that his administration will be an economical one.

"If the federal government gives us the necessary funds to take care of relief, as I think it should, and with business conditions improving, it is my hope that we can return to the pay-as-you-go policy," he declared.

One of the first things Hurley intends to do is to have a conference with Works Progress Administrator Harry Hopkins in Washington.

"At that meeting I am going to ask him what he is going to do for Massachusetts on federal grants," he said.

LOCAL RESPONSIBILITY

"I am a firm believer that the federal government should continue the policy inaugurated under the Civil Works administration (one of the first of the alphabetical administrations set up and on which Hurley served as a member), which gave outright grants to cities and towns for worthwhile projects, and that the responsibility for these projects be placed locally."

As an illustration, he said:

"Say, there is need of new streets. I feel that the federal government should give an appropriation at a living wage and place the responsibility right on the local officials. These should be, as the President has said: 'To approve projects socially and economically sound, with a return of 100 cents on each dollar expended.'"

KNOWS PROBLEM

Enlarging upon the theme, the governor-elect said that the cities and towns would be expected to pay for material with the federal government supplying the funds for the labor. He thought that this would not be a hardship to the communities.

"I know what real estate and taxpayers' problems are," he stressed.

Hurley said he will ask the cooperation of Senator Walsh and Coolidge and the entire Massachusetts delegation in the national House in his efforts to straighten out the Massachusetts problems with Administrator Hopkins.

He will place responsibility, also he said, directly on the department heads for the running of the departments.

"There will be no interference with the departments by me," he said. "As treasurer that was my policy and it will be the same as governor.

"I feel that I will have their full co-operation."

In answer to a question regarding the carrying out of his policies, in view of the fact that the Legislature and the council are in the majority, he said:

"I have gotten along with Republicans for the last six years as state treasurer. I think they will get along with me now."

The governor-elect will have no special employment office in his setup. He said he believes in the regular unemployment system set up under law by the state and the cities.

OFFICES AT CAPITOL

"I believe that I will ask the bankers of Massachusetts to cooperate with the state employment office when private industry is putting on help. I think they will co-operate."

It is his intention to request that rooms at the State House be assigned for his secretarial staff, as has been done in the past, and for the transaction of the necessary activities that falls to the lot of a governor-elect prior to his inauguration.

Former Representative John V. Mahoney of Boston, at the present time a Boston Elevated trustee, will be the new gubernatorial secretary, that is if he cares for the appointment. Paul C. Ryan, Boston newspaperman, will be one of the assistant secretaries.

The governor-elect made it plain that the chief secretary must be one who knows the legislative angle of the state government. His personal secretary will be Miss Helen Delay of Charlestown, who serves him in that capacity as state treasurer.

In view of the fact that the so-called minor state elective officers, like the state treasurer, attorney-general, etc., hold office until two weeks after the incoming governor is sworn in, it will be necessary for Mr. Hurley to resign his present post. He won't do this, he said, until probably the day before his inaugural. The Legislature appoints a state treasurer then to serve until the new state treasurer qualifies.

Governor-elect Hurley will leave Saturday after attending a football game, for Nantucket, where he will rest for about 10 days. Among a bale of congratulatory telegrams received by him were ones from Governor Curley, Senator Walsh and Alexander M. Damon, commissioner of the Salvation Army.

Social Security

U. S. Registration Starts Nov. 16

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—The long-planned registration of 26,000,000 workers for old age pension accounts under the Social Security Act will begin November 16.

Making the announcement today, the Security Board said 45,000 postoffices would distribute to employers on that date a form known as the "Employer's Application for Identification Number."

Each employer will be asked how many are in his employ, and the employes in turn will begin receiving blanks labelled "Application for Social Security Account Number" on November 24.

Each employe will receive a card with a warning printed thereon to preserve it, because "it shows the account number used in keeping records of your Social Security benefit rights under Federal and state laws."

START OF PAYMENTS

The board urged both employers and employes as well as the public to refrain from making inquiries either at the board or postoffices concerning their respective parts in the plan until after receipt of the official forms and instructions. After that, it was said, postal authorities and board representatives will be available to render all assistance necessary.

In the accounts, the persons eligible for pensions will commence next January 1 the storing up of pensions which will go to them at the age of 65, in amounts depending on what their wages have been.

PAYROLL TAXES

The pensions are to be financed by taxes on the payrolls of the employers and the wages of the employes, which will start at 1 per cent in January and rise gradually to 3 per cent. Among those not eligible under the plan are farm labor, servants and government workers.

The board said the employes form asks only such questions as name and address of the applicant and his employer, date and place of birth and parents' names.

When the worker has filled it out, he may return it without paying postage in any one of five ways. By handing it back to the employer, by handing to any labor organization of which he is a member, to a letter carrier or delivering it to the postoffice, or addressing it to "Postmaster, Local."

U. S. Gives State $802,704 To Aid Children

Massachusetts will receive a Federal grant of $802,704 to cover the Federal share of aid to dependent children in the Commonwealth during the second, third and fourth quarters of 1936, John Pearson, New England Regional Director for the Social Security Board announced today.

The announcement of this initial grant follows the Social Security Board's approval of the Massachusetts program, as amended by the legislature, and the rules and regulations promulgated by the State Department of Public Welfare.

By this grant, Massachusetts receives one-third of the cost of aid to dependent children, exclusive of amount in excess of $18 per month for the first dependent child in the family and $12 per month for each additional child in the family.

Under the approved plan, the money payments for aid to dependent children are made through boards of public welfare of cities and towns operating under the supervision of the State Department of Public Welfare.

Under the Social Security Act, a "dependent child" is one "under the age of 16 who has been deprived of parental support or care by reason of the death, continued absence from the home, or physical or mental incapacity of a parent, and who is living with his father, mother, grandfather, grandmother, brother, sister, step-father, step-mother, step-brother, step-sister, uncle or aunt in a place of residence maintained by one or more of such relatives as his or their own home."

Assistance was available under the original Massachusetts law only to mothers. Under the new law to be effective January 1, 1937, assistance may be provided to these other near relatives.

The residence requirement now is one year for the parent or relative seeking aid for a dependent child.

The law also provides for a hearing before the State agency for any person who appeals from a denial by the local agency of his or her application in behalf of a dependent child.

Landon, Hamilton Plan to Rebuild G.O.P. Machine

By KENNETH T. DOWNS

(Copyright, 1936, by International News Service)

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 6—A complete revamping of the Republican party, from stem to gudgeon, will be considered by Governor Alfred M. Landon and National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton when they confer here next week, it was learned today from persons close to the Governor.

That the Governor attaches a great deal of importance to this meeting became apparent when he postponed a vacation until after Hamilton's visit.

Landon refused to comment on the conference with his campaign generalissimo but from sides it was learned he has some very positive ideas to propose.

As titular head of the party, Governor Landon believes the organization must begin rebuilding immediately. His friends attributed the governor's crushing defeat partly to the dilatory tactics of preceding party leaders during the three years after the 1932 election.

He is determined that the next national chairman will not have four years' work dumped in his lap three months before election, as Hamilton did.

Auto Torch Suicide Declared Insane

Springfield, Nov. 6 (AP)—That Arthur Deming, 72, who died in his burning car on Wilbraham Mountain late yesterday, a suicide, was insane, is the opinion of friends, including his business partner, Jess A. Hall.

It was said by Hall that Deming had learned Wednesday that he was to be taken to the Danvers State Hospital for examination as to his mental condition. Deming leaves no near relatives. He had been legally separated from his second wife.

SOCIAL FOLK ORGANIZE

A. F. of L. Grants Union Charter

(Special to Boston American.)

New York, Nov. 6—The first trade union of social workers ever set up in the United states will shortly be organized in New York under a charter from the American Federation of Labor.

The move represents a decision by the Federation to create like unions in other cities and, eventually, an international union.

For the present, the New York union and others that may be set up in other cities will operate as federal locals, directly affiliated with the Federation and subject to a measure of control by the parent body.

BEGIN SMALL

This follows the 50-year practice of the federation in first organizing local unions more or less in leading strings until a sufficient number have been organized to permit the setting up of an international union with full and complete autonomy.

William Collins, general organizer of the Federation in charge of the New York area, who did the pioneer work of organizing the automobile workers of Detroit, while admitting that plans for organizing New York are well under way, declined to go into details, saying:

"There is considerable yet to be done. But is there any reason why these people should not be organized and in the federation?"

The decision of the Federation to organize social workers is a recognition of changed conditions, persons intimate with the practices of the Federation said.

WORK HAS EXPANDED

During the depression social work has expanded into almost an industry, and the need of organization became apparent. On the part of the labor leaders, with whom social workers came into much more intimate contact than before, old prejudices vanished and their place in the labor movement became desirable.

STORK Derby Feud IN COURT

NEW MOTHER MAKES CLAIM

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 6 (INS)—The $775,000 Stork Derby produced new sensations today as a court hearing into the validity of the will of Charles Vance Millar was adjourned until November 16 by Justice Middleton.

The hearing was called to review Millar's will, which set aside the prize for the Toronto mother bearing the most children in the ten years after his death—the period ending last Saturday.

The race apparently had resolved itself into a sixway tie among six mothers, including Mrs. Lily Kenny, each of whom had properly registered nine births in the past ten years.

Mrs. Kenny had enlivened the situation with the announcement that two more of the Kenny children had been registered improperly, giving her eleven births and Mrs. Kenny easily clear claim to the $775,000.

Attorney W. N. Tilley, counsel to the executor Millar's will, started things off by stating things that had been whispered for months. He arguments bore heavily on the hopes of the mysterious Mrs. X., now identified as Mrs. Pauline Mae Clarke. Five of the nine children born to Mrs. Clarke in the last ten years are registered under the name of an unwed father.

"The court may take the view," said Tilley, "that the clause (the stork-derby clause of the will) was intended to include mothers of illegitimate children.

"Or—

"The court may hold the true construction of the will to include only mothers of legitimate children.

"Under this construction, the will he submitted would not be against public policy."

The second sensation was produced by Mrs. Elvira Mastrotuzia, previously unmentioned in the spotlight of the stork derby publicity.

Mrs. Mastrotuzia announced that she, too, had borne nine children within the last ten years. That she, too, was eligible as any of the other mothers—which would mean that the prize probably would be split seven ways if the court upholds her claim and disallows Mrs. Kenny's claim to two children improperly registered.

Justice Middleton rubbed his his forehead wearily and announced adjournment to November 16 so that he might study briefs presented by the derby contestants and by Millar's relatives who are contesting the derby clause of the will.

New State Official Soon to Take Bride

One of 2 Eligible Bachelors

Francis E. Kelly, lieutenant-governor-elect, and his fiancee, Miss Marion MacDonald.

Storks In

San Pedro, Calif., Nov. 6 (AP)—Fishermen—not anxious fathers—will be pacing the dock when six storks arrive here tomorrow.

The liner Drechtgen is due to reach this stork-bound port in the morning from Holland with birds for the Los Angeles city zoo in Griffith Park.

Officers assured zoo officials the storks would be delivered safely through maritime picket lines.

Miss Marion MacDonald To Wed Francis Kelly

By BETTY DI PESA

There'll be a Mrs. Francis E. Kelly soon. And the new State family will be minus one of its two eligible bachelors.

The first lady in the heart of the young, handsome lieutenant-governor-elect is Marion MacDonald of Trenton street, East Boston.

She wears a large solitaire on the important finger of her left hand and admitted that the trip to the altar with Frank was certain, but just when, she did not say.

Marion and Frank were found at the home of Miss MacDonald's sister on Adams street, Dorchester, where the two had gone to hide away and have their first tete-a-tete since Kelly opened his campaign.

The two were enjoying a victory luncheon. The fare of the luncheon consisted of scrambled eggs which the bride-to-be had prepared for her victorious sweetheart.

As Frank relished the fluffy yellow things that his fiancee had whipped for him, Marion told a little about herself.

Said the attractive brunette:

"I don't know a thing about politics. I didn't do a bit of campaigning for Frank. In fact I don't like the business of politics. But, of course, I think it's fine for Frank."

Asked about her personal feelings concerning the competition for the lieutenant governorship, she replied:

"Well, I always felt the best man would win. And of course, to me, Frank was the best man.

"I'm still in a daze. The waiting was so trying.

"I couldn't eat or sleep."

Mrs. Kelly-to-be works as a secretary for the telephone company. But to celebrate the victory, she took a few days off from her work.

The important young lady in the life of Frank Kelly was smartly tailored in black crepe and shod in black suede oxfords.

In the domestic mood of a kitchen meal, Kelly was asked:

"How does she cook, Lieutenant-Governor?"

He sipped a big glass of milk (Marion tells me he never drinks tea or coffee) and replied with a big grin:

"Oh, there's room for improvement. She's fair."

His fiancee replied with feigned anxiety:

"You always said I was all right."

Asked how she feels about assuming the title of the Second Lady of Massachusetts, the hostess replied:

"Why, I never thought about it. I've just thought of being Mrs. Francis E. Kelly and that's quite important enough for me."

Miss MacDonald admitted a slight resentment against politics in that she couldn't remember the last "date" she had with Francis, he's been so busy.

The state's most important bachelor, but not for long, and his girl-friend both love to swim in the summer and ice-skate in the winter.

They met three years ago at a banquet. And up to that time Marion hadn't liked politicians.

"But that was before I met Frank," she explained shyly.

Until the election of Kelly, the state family's only bachelor was Paul A. Dever, re-elected to the office of attorney general.

Girl, 6, Safe After Night in Woods

Yonkers, N. Y., Nov. 6 (AP)—A frantic all-night search for six-year-old Blanche Gotthardt ended at daybreak today when the child wandered out of a wood and calmly told two police officers, "I went for a walk and couldn't find my way back."

She said she had slept in the woods. She was nervous and hungry, and her clothes were damp and soiled, but she seemed otherwise unaffected.

GRIEF For Heir's WIFE

PIERCE FIGHTS ALIMONY

New York, Nov. 6 (INS)—New troubles aplenty today beset the beautiful Mrs. Marion Pierce, wife of Andrew Granville Pierce, 3rd, heir to the American Woolen Mills fortune, who is suing her for annulment of their marriage.

Pierce alleged that her former marriage to Conkey Whitehead, soft drink heir, had not been obtained legally.

In her suite at a fashionable hotel here today, Mrs. Pierce said she "simply couldn't understand" her husband's charges, or his allegation that she had received $250,000 from former husbands, and does not need the alimony which he is supposed to pay her.

Neither could she understand the assertion of Pierce that he makes only $25 a week, has to live on the charity of relatives and can't pay the $80,000 in alimony she claims he owes her.

"Mystery" Husband

She didn't have anything to say about young Pierce's mention of a mystery husband heretofore unsuspected and identified only as "the Dean."

In her hotel she was told of Pierce's motion, filed in Supreme Court, for an order setting aside an order of arrest on Sept. 22, which placed him in the alimony jug for a brief session.

The papers announced he intended to file an annulment suit.

"I don't understand it a bit," she said. "In the beginning he seems to be hinting about a divorce and in the end it's something about an annulment. It doesn't make much sense."

As for the $250,000 settlement

"That's absolutely not correct. You'll have to see my attorney for the rest."

The attorney, Sanford Jarrett, was "very curious" but otherwise unimpressed.

"He said he makes only $25 a week?" asked the attorney. "Tut, tut. The night before he was arrested he'd been spending his time at night clubs. He was buying champagne for himself and others.

"Delusion" Charged

"Also, within 24 hours after his arrest he had raised a $25,000 bond from a security company."

Jarett declared Pierce has no right to an annulment, because he is not a resident of this state. He was preparing to take a Chicago on the night the alimony order was served on him, the lawyer said.

In his action, Pierce, charged his wife had the delusion that she was a leader of the "400," that she was receiving support from her former husbands, and that she used far beyond his own income.

He went on to assert that she obtained a divorce from Whitehead by falsely representing herself as a resident of Illinois. She had never lived in that state, he declared.

Taunton, Nov. 6—Narrowly escaping serious injury when she fell from a second-story window of her home to the ground, Mrs. Mary Rezendes, 39, of Wilbur street, was under treatment for bruises and shock at Morton Hospital today.

Farley Greets Papal Envoy

On bended knee and kissing the ring of Eugenio, Cardinal Pacelli, James A. VICTORY To Fr. Waters ON OIL

WINS FIGHT TO BAN 'FARM'

A fight of many years to improve conditions in South Boston gained considerable headway today.

The Rev. Patrick J. Waters, pastor of St. Brigid's Church, South Boston, revealed that Governor Curley had revoked the permit of a coal company for the construction of an oil farm.

For many years Father Waters has waged battles in his district to improve conditions. He has protested smoke and cinders, granting of liquor licenses in various sections and the erection of a dog track on Old Colony boulevard.

Declaring Governor Curley's refusal to grant the license for the building of an oil farm is a "great victory for people of South Boston," Father Waters continued:

"From his sick room in Jamaica Plain the governor sent a message to his secretary, Frank Kane, and Senator Edward C. Carroll (of South Boston) that the permit would not be granted.

"The people of South Boston are very happy at this favorable outcome of their opposition to the oil farm. This victory, together with the recent victory over the coal dust and smoke nuisance has caused rejoicing in the district that is widespread."

Springfield Widow Seeks Tax Refund

Hartford, Ct., Nov. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Emily G. Harris of Springfield, Mass., widow of Frederick Harris, a banker, has filed suit here with the U. S. court of claims seeking recovery of allegedly wrongfully collected income taxes.

Her suit contends the government collected $11,581 as taxes for 1930 and $6534 for 1931 in excess of the amount due. Her claim is based on the contention her husband's estate was in process of settlement at the time of the collections and that no part of it had been distributed to her.

"So what?"

"Just this! I'll bet a new hat that you put a big dent in the family exchequer when you bought that suit".

"O. K.! I can use a new 'kelliv'. What's your guess?"

"Well now, let's see. I'd say between $35 and $40. And we'll go shopping for a new bonnet tomorrow"

"Not so fast, honey! Take a look at this sales slip. And what do those pretty blue eyes see? Yes, $25 including two trousers—that's all! Now admit that your old man isn't such a bad shopper".

"Golly Jim, where did you get it?"

"Bond's, my dear, Bond's!"

"How in the world do they do it?"

"That's simple as A. B. C. Bond Clothes are made in Bond's own factories. And the profits they'd ordinarily have to pay to an outside maker go right smack into my pocket. Neat, eh?"

"Well, guess you win. And now I suppose I'll have a nice hat bill on my hands".

"Wrong again! I'm going right back to Bond's for one of their $2.75 felts. Now that I've got the Bond habit 'you'll be wearing diamonds', me proud beauty".

P. S. We can't guarantee the crown jewels to all the wives whose husbands are wise enough to buy at Bond's. But we can promise a never-ending string of surprising values. The suits turned out by our Rochester tailors will give your Jim a figure like Clark Gable's. The tariff is only $30, with two trousers. And one of our $35 Park Lane Suits will make him look like nothing less than a First Vice-President of The First National. As guardian of the budget, why not suggest a visit to Bond's today or tomorrow.

Boston's Fire Chief To Retire Nov. 18

He'll Be 70 Years Old Then

Testimonial Dinner To Be Given for Henry A. Fox

Henry A. Fox, tall, lean, and active chief of the Boston Fire Department, has been playing with fire all his life and has been burnt, yet he still thrills at the sound of a siren or fire alarm bell.

Most people think that the chief of the Boston fire department has a "cinch" of a job, riding around all day long in a comfortable, red, chauffeur-driven automobile.

Chief of Department Fox, who retires from his post on November 18—his 70th birthday, refutes that statement.

"The duties of the fire chief have increased 100 fold since I joined the department," he revealed in an exclusive interview with the Boston Evening American.

"Permits for oil burners and gas stations, in addition to the periodic inspection of buildings, which is being done continually, are just a few of the new jobs given to this department. I am also responsible for the executive and disciplinary functions of the force."

ALWAYS ON CALL

The fire chief is on call 24 hours a day. Even when he goes to the theater he leaves his name and seat number at the boxoffice. Mrs. Fox is happy at the thought of having her husband around the house, even though she, too, likes to chase fires.

Henry A. Fox joined the Boston fire department in 1886, when he was 20. Applicants for the fire-fighting force were supposed to be 22 years old.

"I was not only young, but I looked young," Chief Fox admitted. "I had four hairs on each side of my upper lip, while practically every other member of the department had long beards and mustaches. These hirsute appendages were one of the many difficulties present in fighting blazes years ago. They were invariably singed and in cold weather it was not unusual to see long icicles hanging from both beards and mustaches."

The department in 1886 had about 550 men compared with 1571 men today. The equipment was useless in fires which presented problems of heat, smoke, acrid fumes, and ventilation. Chief Fox thinks that the greatest development in modern fire-fighting was the motorization of all equipment.

His 6 feet 2½ inches and 178 pounds are covered with scars, silent witnesses to the many close calls he has had. The Arch street explosion in August, 1898 was one of the nearest scrapes with death that Chief Fox had.

A hot air explosion followed by a tremendous sheet of flame hit his entire company and kneeled all hands down two flights of stairs. Fox, who was a lieutenant then, was carried by rescue workers down the last flight of stairs. His face, neck, chest, and arms were horribly burned, requiring hospitalization for 31 days.

The Sears Building fire in '91 was just another fire to Chief Fox, when he was hit on the skull by a falling block of granite. Picked up for dead, Fox began to scrap to get back into the fire.

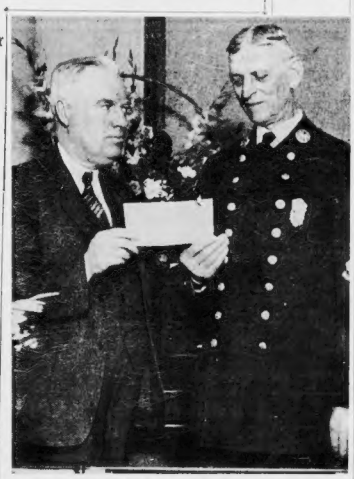
TESTIMONIAL DINNER

On November 16 at 7:30 p. m. at the Kenmore Hotel, a group of friends and associates, in and out of the fire department, will honor Henry A. Fox with a testimonial dinner.

When Fox walks from his office on November 18, after serving for 50 years, he will leave after accomplishing his boyhood ambition of becoming chief of the Boston fire department.

Hale and hearty, Chief Fox appears in better shape for his 70 years than men 20 years younger. He will first take a long rest. After that, well—not even Mrs. Fox has made any plans for the future.

He may again take up his boyhood liking for bowling. Baseball occupies much of his time when the diamond stars are batting them out.



COMM. E. F. McLAUGHLIN FIRE CHIEF HARRY A. FOX

Fire Commissioner Edward F. McLaughlin, who is planning farewell party for his chief is chatting with Fire Chief Fox concerning plans for the big party marking the retirement of Fox. On the day he retires Chief Fox will be 70 years of age.

The French would better spend money building bomb-proof protections over Notre Dame, the Sainte Chapelle and the Louvre and its art treasures.

As great a man as Napoleon could stick in a rut. If he had listened patiently, instead of saying, when Fulton called on him, "I can give that American just three minutes," he might have crossed the Channel to England in spite of contrary winds. 16 MORE JOBHOLDERS MAY FACE CURLEY'S AXE

Ensign of the State Racing Commission will be dropped, it was said, and former Representative Francis X. Quigley, one of the assistant secretaries, will get that job for three years at $4500 a year.

Assistant Secretary Frank L. Kane is expected to replace Hilliard K. Hale, taxiover associate commissioner in the public utilities. The remaining term is good for two years and pays $6000 a year.

John H. Backus, who has been legal adviser in the Governor's office, is to be rewarded with the utilities seat left vacant by the death of Henry C. Atwill a job good until 1 the end of 1939 and paying $7000 annually.

TAX POST "PLUM"

One plum that has everyone guessing in the state house of the appeal post now held by Attorney John D. Wright. This appointment will be for five years at $7000 a year. There is talk of Wright getting out and talk of him getting back.

What will happen, the governor has indicated to no one. Former Governor Frank G. Allen, who is friendly with Governor Curley, is said to have interested himself in Wright's reappointment. On the other hand State Senator James G. Moran, a Republican who helped Curley legislation a lot last year, has cast longing eyes at the post.

WOBURN JUSTICE

Assistant Secretary Alfred A. Sarlorelli, of the executive staff, is conceded the appointment as special justice of the Woburn District Court.

Competing to the tax board job in its appeal is the almost certain vacating of the associate commissionership in the department of public works now held by Frank E. Lyman of Easthampton and paying $8000 a year for three years. The Governor has turned thumbs down on the reappointment, it is indicated, but who will draw the prize is uncertain.

The Metropolitan District Commission post now held by former Mayor Melvin B. Breath of Chelsea is another "doubtful" speculation. Breath, it is reported now, will not be reappointed. This job pays only $1000 a year for three years, but it's only a part-time job and its prestige is considered a most valuable item.

George E. Murphy of Lowell is very apt to hold onto his commissionership in the state administration and finance commission, observers say, but this pays $6000 and is good for four years.

A. Carl Settile, member of the board of registry of barbers and hairdressers is conceded the reappointment to a three-year term, paying $2500 annually.

COUNCIL POST

Whether the governor will send back to the executive council again the name of Leo A. Halloran of Quincy for the vacant justiceship in Barnstable district court was another subject for the guessers today. The council had refused confirmation several times. The guessing was who would get the job if the governor gives up on Halloran.

The State Board of Parole, with the two-year term of Matilda W. Bullock expiring on December 1, offers another plum. This pays $4500 a year. The governor hasn't indicated who will get the post, but it won't be Bullock.

There is another probable opening in the civil service department. George Harlow, associate commissioner, will be out on December 1, and a three-year job paying $2500 will be open for one of the Curley lieutenants.

Professor John J. Murray, chairman of the department of public utilities, at an annual salary of $6000, will be reappointed for five years, it is definitely indicated. He was serving out the unexpired term of Abraham C. Webber this year.

Unless the Governor changes his mind, James J. Sughrue, director of state registration, will also be reappointed December 1. His position is good for $2400 a year for two years.

Indications of the sweeping changes of come was shown yesterday at the council meeting when the Governor appointed his brother, John J. Curley, to the first vacancy in the state board of tax appeals. The council confirmed.

The Governor last named Dr. David L. Williams of Jamaica Plain to replace Dr. Winfred Overholser as commissioner of mental diseases, but that went over for a week when the council balked at confirming under suspension of rules.

Cooperation of the council in the dropping of numerous appointive state officials during the coming weeks seemed likely also in view of the fact that four of the councillors, defeated for re-election, will leave the State House with the governor.

While tension is high at the State House, there will be no further action by the governor until next Thursday, when the next council meeting is scheduled.

In the meanwhile he plans to go south to treat the heavy cold which laid him low during the closing days of his losing campaign for election to the United States Senate.

At the council meeting, that body confirmed the governor's appointment of his brother immediately under suspension of the rules.

The position carries a $7000 annual salary and is for a term of three years. The governor's brother will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation several weeks ago of former State Auditor Francis X. Hurley, who was appointed to the Tax Appeal Board by Governor Ely.

Appointment of Dr. Williams to replace Dr. Overholser and other changes recommended by the governor were held over until next week by the council, however.

Curley, the governor's brother, left, was appointed member of State Board of Tax Appeals; Dr. Winfred Overholser, center, was ousted as commissioner of mental diseases, and Dr. David Williams of Jamaica Plain was named in his stead. Names of the two appointees were sent to the executive council.

DINNER HONORS G.O.P. WINNERS

A testimonial dinner to Senator-elect Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Congressman-elect George J. Bates, of Salem; Governor's Councillor-elect Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., of Hamilton; and three re-elected county officials, will be given at the Hotel Hawthorne, Salem, by the Essex Club, the news' Republican organization of Essex County. The tentative date of the dinner is November 20.

Vote $14,000 To Aid Girl To Walk

Jackson, O., Nov. 6 (US)—A seven-year-old girl doomed to spend her life in a wheelchair will soon be able to walk as a result of Tuesday's election in which Coal Township property owners overwhelmingly voted an assessment to pay for an operation.

When she was two, Hetty McGhee stumbled into hot ashes left by negligent township employes, and her legs and feet were so badly burned she has been unable to walk since.

Proper surgery will restore the use of her limbs, physicians said. But the girl's parents could not afford the treatment, although courts decided in her favor against the township. There was no money in the treasury to settle the judgment.

Now a bond issue, adopted by the voters who will pay an extra assessment levy of 2.90 mills, will provide $14,000 for Hetty.

DYING BANDIT MAY BE LINKED TO R. I. CRIME

As John Dacey, 19, lay dying in City Hospital of wounds he suffered in the attempted holdup of a Roxbury chain store, Providence police today wired for a full description of the youth in the belief he may have been Rhode Island's "paper bag bandit."

The "paper bag" bandit held up eight places in Providence and Pawtucket several months ago.

LAPSES INTO COMA

Struck three times by bullets from the gun of Augustine Gabbett of Lane avenue, East Weymouth, the store manager, young Dacey was given little chance of recovery when he was admitted to the hospital.

At 4 a. m. today his condition changed for the worse and he lapsed into a coma. Detectives were at his bedside in the hope he might make a statement, but doctors said it was unlikely he would recover consciousness.

Through serial numbers on the gun the youth used in the attempted holdup, police established that it was not the .32 calibre weapon which was included in the pistols taken from the postoffice garage by two young men Wednesday night.

GABBETT SHOOTS

Dacey walked into the store of which Gabbett is manager in Warren street, Roxbury, at 8:45 p. m. last night.

As he ordered a package of cigarettes, he attempted to pull his revolver from a pocket.

Gabbett, who keeps two guns in his store to protect himself against holdup men, was too quick for him. Drawing his own gun, a special 38-calibre weapon from under the counter, Gabbett sent three slugs into the youth.

Holdup Youth Dying

John Dacey, shot three times in an attempted robbery in a store at Warren and Moreland streets, is dying at the City Hospital. He is shown in the hospital.

THEFT SUSPECT CAPTURED

Trailed by bloodstains and allegedly identified by face wounds received in a hand-to-hand battle with a South Boston store proprietor, an 18-year-old burglar suspect was captured today as he hid beneath a bed in a Dorchester avenue, South Boston, lodging house.

The arrest was made after Stanley Puretz, 40, had told police of awakening to grapple with a prowler in his West Third street, South Boston, variety store, where he has sleeping quarters.

A few moments later, a light flashed on upstairs in a nearby lodging house.

The officers examined the door and found the lock had been forced. They followed bloodstains to a third floor bedroom.

The prisoner was booked as Martin Joyce, 18, of Dorchester avenue, South Boston.

U. S. VISIT FOR KING

May Follow Trip to Canada

Father Point, Que., Nov. 6 (AP)—Canadians visioned King Edward VIII today as the first British monarch to visit this dominion and the United States.

Prime Minister MacKenzie King returning from England said the sovereign intended to visit Canada after his coronation next May. Officials recalled that President Roosevelt, speaking at Quebec last August, invited King Edward to visit the United States.

Premier King said the 42-year-old monarch intended to visit his South American dominion "as soon as possible" after his trip to India, immediately following the coronation as Emperor of India.

He said Edward, owner of the "EP" ranch in Alberta, looked forward to the trip with high enthusiasm.

No British king ever has set foot on North America, although Edward visited this continent four times before his accession to the throne, coming to the United States only in 1919 and 1924. His father, King George V, also visited Canada before he succeeded to the throne.

Motor Magnate H. B. Joy, 72, Dies

Detroit, Nov. 6 (AP)—Henry B. Joy, Sr., former president of the Packard Motor Car company, died of heart disease at his Grosse Pointe Farms home today. He would have been 72 years old on November 23.

His health had been poor since he returned from his summer residence at Watch Hill, R. I., a few months ago.

Fatal Fire Probed

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 6 (INS)—An investigation was begun today into the cause of a warehouse fire which took the lives of four men here.

BOY, 17, FACES DOPE CHARGE

A 17-year-old Roxbury youth faced arraignment in federal court today on a charge of having narcotics in his possession, and police were holding another man, believed to be a wholesale seller of illicit drugs, as a suspicious person.

The youth, said to be the youngest person ever arrested in Boston on a narcotic charge, was taken in custody by members of the police narcotic squad at his home. He gave his name as Marshall Jennings of Greenleaf street.

Police seized a quantity of heroin, valued at $9000, in his home. Special Officers Francis L. Sweeney and Daniel F. Curran, who made the arrest and seizure, said the youth admitted to them that he had been handling the illicit narcotics.

The suspect was arrested three hours later when he came to Jennings' home. Police believe he is one of a number of wholesalers of narcotics who are reported to be working in the city.

Baby on Plane Scalded by Coffee

Los Angeles, Nov. 6 (AP)—One cup of coffee transformed an air liner's flight from routine to alarmed excitement.

Judy Miller, 21 months old, upset it on the supper tray of her mother while the plane was in flight here from San Francisco. The stewardess applied first aid to the scalded baby. The pilot changed his course and sped to Fresno nearest airport.

Summoned by radio, an ambulance and physicians met the plane. Physicians said the baby had suffered first and third degree burns on the face and shoulder.

DOROTHY TOURS WORLD AGAIN ON RADIO

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

New York, Nov. 6—I'm going around the world again!

Not by plane and train and ship, but by the magic of radio. I'm going to revisit this evening all the strange and exciting countries I touched so briefly on my record-making globe girdling adventure.

I'll say hello at 6 p. m. to Germany, Italy, Egypt, Persia, India, Indo China, Siam, China, Burma and Manila. Then I'll go even further and introduce myself to the two continents I didn't hit on my flight—South America and Australia.

NOT GOING ALONE

This time I'm not going alone. I'll be accompanied on my radio "tour" by my father, James L. Kilgallen, who was left at home on the original jaunt.

Dad will interview me on the air, asking questions about the cities I stopped at and the sights I saw. His queries and my replies will be translated into the many different languages I had such difficulties with when I was trying to get across those foreign places in a hurry.

I'm going to love retracing my steps this way. I'm anxious to say hello to General Von Epp, in Munich—he was so nice to me on the way over in the Hindenburg, and on the plane trip from Frankfort to Munich—and to some people I met in Verona and Rome, and others. I hope Lous Bonfils, on my Siamese pilot, is flattening in in Bangkok—I'll never forget the ride he gave me, and I don't think he will, either.

OTHERS TO THANK

Then there are people in Hong Kong who helped speed me from Kai Tak airport to the waiting President Pierce. I'd like to thank them, and those in Manila, where I had such a fine time.

Incidentally, to make this broadcast, I'll have to go traveling again. I thought it would be a long time before I took a ride in anything faster than a New York taxicab, but I'll board a plane for Albany and motor to Schenectady for the broadcast, which will emanate from the General Electric studios there over short wave station W2XAD and W2XAF.

I'll be awfully glad to get in a plane again. After traveling 22,000 miles, most of them spent in the air, I don't feel at home on the ground.

A week or so "in the hangar" is enough. Then I get landsick. I'm landsick now—and the only cure is altitude.

Styles 'Nonsense,' Says 'Best Dressed'

New York, Nov. 6 (INS) — Mrs. Harrison Williams, known as "the world's best-dressed woman," has confirmed what a lot of husbands have suspected for a long time.

Returning from abroad on the Conte Di Savoia, she was met with a barrage of questions concerning the fashions. She brushed these all aside with the impatient statement:

"You can't keep up that nonsense forever."

Mrs. Williams wore an orange cloth coat trimmed with nutria, a brown dress and a brown beret.

Highway Knights

Truck drivers are the "gentlemen of the highways today," Maxwell Halsey, assistant director of the Bureau for Street Traffic Research at Harvard, told the Society of Automotive Engineers at a meeting at Technology.

Sleeplessness
Comes from Constipation

Loss of sleep—a waning appetite—low spirits—these are only a few of the symptoms of constipation.

They warn that poisons from the waste matter are being absorbed by the blood and carried to all parts of your body. Your vitality is lowered until you become a prey to serious disease.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach, and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Just try Nujol regularly for the next month and see if you don't feel better than you ever suspected you could.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

250,000 CHEER ROOSEVELT IN WASHINGTON

By GEORGE DURNO

Washington, Nov. 6 (INS)—With gaily trumpeting bands, flying flags and rousing cheers, fully a quarter of a million federal workers, school children and citizenry accorded President Roosevelt a royal welcome upon his return here today.

Greeted by most of the cabinet members, District of Columbia officials, and war and navy department ranking officers, the chief executive came back to the capital to find it decked out in high color and ringing with cheers for his sweeping victory.

The strains of "Happy Days Are Here Again" and "Swanee River" reverberated through packed Union Station as the presidential train pulled in at 8:20, and Mr. Roosevelt, the nation's number one citizen, emerged all smiles.

TO TACKLE BUDGET

The President held an informal reception in his private railroad car, and then made two brief talks to the throng which yelled and sang a welcome.

"My friends," he said, drawing a tremendous ovation, "I'm glad to be back here again. I've formed a habit of coming back to Washington since I was five years old. I am glad that habit is not to be broken during the coming four years."

Even after Mr. Roosevelt entered the White House the cheering of the throngs who lined streets demanded his attention.

Finally, with Mrs. Roosevelt and his son, James, he went out on the front portico, waved and smiled, and stood while he was cheered continuously for ten minutes.

President Roosevelt returned determined "To try to balance the budget, thereby carrying out the first of the campaign pledges."

On November 17, the President will board the Cruiser Indianapolis at some southern port for a fishing cruise, probably in Carribbean waters.

PAN-AMERICAN VISIT

This vacation cruise may be extended to take him for a one-day visit in Buenos Aires, Argentine capital, for the Pan-American conference on December 1. The President will make his decision on this visit next week, he announced at his press conference today.

Before boarding the Indianapolis, however, Mr. Roosevelt must lay the groundwork for his 1937 budget estimates. It was this annual task principally that has brought him back to Washington.

It was the prospect of this task that prompted Mr. Roosevelt to tell a cheering throng of his neighbors who saw him off at Hyde Park last night he was going to try to balance the budget.

Referring to his forthcoming vacation cruise, the President told the crowd that when he got back the Christmas season "will be approaching with its thoughts of incoming Congress."

ON AIR TONIGHT

"So during the joyous Christmas season," he added with a smile, "I will be preparing gifts for the new Congress."

There was a possibility the President would remain in the national capital only a few days and then go to the "Little White House" in Warm Springs, Ga., to wrestle with budget problems.

Also, the President must decide upon a number of major appointments to federal posts that deliberately were left vacant until after election so he could persuade men of high calibre to serve.

Mr. Roosevelt goes on the air tonight at 10 o'clock, (EST), with his annual appeal to the nation for support of the community chest. This address is under the auspices of the Mobilization for Human Needs.

The Doctor Has Good News

THE report of Dr. Ross McIntyre, the White House physician, that President Roosevelt has come through the campaign "in excellent physical trim" is good news to the nation.

America has put a heavy burden upon Mr. Roosevelt. It has designated him as the one man, of all the scores of millions, capable of making the nation prosperous, its people happy.

That responsibility demands physical strength as well as mental power and spiritual courage.

Perhaps the thing America most admires about Mr. Roosevelt is the quality of heart that enabled him to triumph over a physical affliction.

G. O. P. DEFICIT IS $1,300,000

New York, Nov. 6 (INS)—A Republican deficit of approximately $1,300,000 was disclosed here today by Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, Eastern Republican campaign manager. Martin said he expected John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman, here the first of the week.

"What is Mr. Hamilton going to do here?" he was asked.

"I imagine he'll start raising money to meet the deficit," Martin observed. "It'll run about $1,300,000, according to latest estimates."

AUSTEN LAKE, the sports columnist who is on the inside of the real sports news and lets you take a peak—read him every day in the Boston American.

Sullivan, Indian War Vet, Dead

John Sullivan, 89, father of Ernest J. Sullivan, superintendent of the Boston Evening American press room, died today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Kathleen O'Neil, of 97 Walnut street, Newton.

As a youth Mr. Sullivan came to America from County Cork, Ireland, and has resided in South Boston and Newton. He was a veteran of the Indian wars an the Spanish-American war. Before retiring 15 years ago, he was connected with the Board of Health in Boston and also worked as an engineer for the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

Two other sons, Alexander, a New York sports promoter, and George, a teacher at Boston Latin School, also survive him. His wife, Jane, died eleven years ago.

SIX FAMILIES FLEE FIRE IN SOMERVILLE

Fire in the partitions of a Somerville apartment house and a resulting heavy smoke drove out six families, comprising about 30 persons, today.

The scene was the three-story dwelling house at 278-280 Somerville avenue. Damage of $1,000 was estimated.

The flames originated, firemen said, from a defective light wire in a ceiling of the first floor, and burned between ceiling and floor and the walls. Burning insulation caused an acrid smoke.

Families of the following made their way to the street without assistance: Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Earle, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ardizzoni, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dermos, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Marcotti, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marsante and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Laghetto.

A misunderstanding in fire department telephone transmission resulted in the sounding of a second alarm and the sending of extra apparatus to the scene after the fire was all but extinguished.

3 Get Year's Term For Sweep Fraud

Characterized as the "principal offenders" by the government, three men today were sentenced to serve a year and a day in a federal penitentiary by Federal Judge George C. Sweeney in the fraudulent Montreal sweepstakes trials.

Sentenced today were Harry Sherman of Mattapan, Daniel Lathrop of Hoosick and Paul Berney of New York.

All three were sentenced on the charge of using the mails to defraud and received suspended sentences of a year for transporting the lottery tickets across state lines.

Eighteen other defendants await sentence in what the government charged was a $1,000,000 plot.

Indictment of the 21 men followed a year's investigation by postal inspectors who claimed that more than 2,000,000 of the fake tickets were sold in New England.

Declined Pension, Loses Life on Job

Worcester, Nov. 6—Theodore Dubreuil, 65, of Wabash avenue, declined a pension three years ago because he would rather continue at work.

Today he lost his life when his sleeve caught in a lathe in the machine works of the American Steel & Wire Company, where he had been employed for 28 years, he was killed.

His right arm was nearly torn off, all the ribs on the right side were broken, his right collarbone was fractured in the fatal accident.

Dubreuil, who was employed as a machinist and had formerly been a foreman, was eligible for a pension three years ago, but surprised his employers when he said he would rather continue at work.

WPA Jobs Sought For 2300 Facing Quabbin Lay-off

Storm clouds loomed over WPA headquarters here today, as public officials and political groups demanded action to take care of 2300 workers faced with loss of jobs at the Quabbin reservoir site in Enfield.

Chairman Eugene C. Hultman, of the Metropolitan District water supply commission, broke the news that Quabbin laborers were to be dismissed by hundreds next week.

"The work of clearing as much land as will be flooded during the next six or seven years is 'completed,'" Hultman said.

"Governor Curley has been informed of our decision, which provides that the men now on the job will be laid off a week from tomorrow."

Chairman Hultman asserted the Metropolitan district commission has made application for WPA funds and workers to build sidewalks along seven miles of parkway boulevards.

"Whether or not the men dropped at Enfield will be used on this new project, I can't say," Hultman told interviewers, "but it should provide considerable work for some group."

The work at Quabbin was started last May on orders from Governor Curley.

While employes there had expected their ranks to be cut somewhat during winter months, they had not anticipated the present wholesale layoff.

Wages have averaged $24 a week and many of the workers have commuted from various Greater Boston districts.

Man, Woman Killed As Car Overturns

North Adams, Nov. 6 — Mrs. George Wright, 30, and Theodore Hart, 26, of Williamstown, were killed here today when their automobile left the road and overturned.

Mrs. Wright suffered a broken neck in the accident and Hart a fractured skull. She was killed instantly and he died shortly after arrival at the North Adams hospital.

Mrs. Wright was separated from her husband.

Man, Woman Fail In Suicide Pact

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 6 (INS)—A suicide pact that failed was the police description today of the finding on a lonely road near here of a New York business man and a pretty young woman companion, overcome by carbon monoxide fumes in a parked automobile.

Notes hinted that both wanted to die because of thwarted love. They were identified as Charles Schwartz, 40, and Gladys Glassburg, 28. Schwartz is married and has two children.

MODERN IDEAS SEEN AS NEED IN SCHOOLS

Stressing the need of reorganization in American high schools, educators attending the 17th annual conference of the New England School Superintendents' Association closed the session today with group discussion.

At a banquet held on the Parker House roof last night, Dr. Harry A. Overstreet, head of the department of philosophy, City College of New York, urged school and college officials to concentrate on modern teaching methods.

Factors stressed by speakers included intelligent sex education for adolescents in the classroom and reorganization of high school administration.

ANTIQUATED METHODS

Dr. Roy O. Billett of Boston University charged that antiquated teaching methods in high schools were responsible for the "flunk out" mortality rate.

"Under the present system in some high schools about one out of four students fail to graduate. Furthermore, we do not spend enough money on reorganization. Last year crime cost the United States $18,000,000,000 and 27,000 high schools spent $1,000,000,000 on improving conditions—conditions which drive boys and girls out of high school into careers of crime."

Dr. Billett was in favor of the individualized diploma, a certificate which states precisely what a student has accomplished in four years.

2 STUPID THINGS

"Two stupid things in our system of education is a blanket diploma and a college entrance examination. The latter is worthless. No two colleges have the same requirements in their examination."

Dr. Charles Swain Thomas, of Harvard, explained a public speaking method, the "speaking choir." He said that voice modulation was an art and that proper training in it could be better accomplished if students were organized into the speaking choir. There they would learn to speak as a group at different voice levels.

President William Pack, of Holyoke, presided at the conference.

Fall River Mill To Employ 5000

Fall River, Nov. 6—Employment will be given 5000 persons by the Celanese Corporation of America, one of the largest manufacturers of rayon in the world, in the taking over of the plants of the American Printing Company and the American Linen Mills.

At least 1000 persons will be employed when the company begins operations here with additional facilities bringing the total to 5000 within three years.

Quebec's Women Again Denied Vote

Quebec, Nov. 6 (AP)—Hopes of Quebec's women to vote in provincial elections—a fight they have waged annually for years—were dashed again today. On a standup vote, the legislature dismissed the proposed amendment to the electoral law.

YES, THIS FOOD ENDS YOUR CONSTIPATION

Look out for those half-sick days, when you feel listless, headachy, out-of-sorts. Your trouble may be constipation. The real cause of common constipation is too little "bulk" in meals. Your system misses its regular exercise.

Get this needed "bulk" in a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently sponges out the system.

Why keep on feeling bad when you can feel good? Millions of people use ALL-BRAN. Tests prove it's safe and effective. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Serve as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into recipes. Remember, ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

Certainly you'd rather eat a food than take pills and drugs. Buy ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

'HUMAN WALL' OF ARMED WOMEN BATTLING REBELS

shortly after Madrid's women marched out to join the fighting, advancing shoulder to shoulder with their comrades in a human wall against the merciless lead of Fascist insurgents and their fellow Moorish troops storming the outskirts of the capital.

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

STORY BEHIND THE NEWS: In another column today you will read of the arrest and arraignment of a youth of 17, seized as principal in the largest seizure of heroin in Boston in the past 10 years . . . Detectives Daniel F. Curran and Francis L. Sweeney, who comprise the Boston narcotic squad, had been "tailing" the young man for two weeks before his apprehension yesterday . . . Less than a week ago, the police department had been prodded to additional alertness by Superintendent Fallon toward the suppression of the supply of the dope known as marijuana, or mariguana, or marihuana, a species of hashish . . . In reality, there is very little marijuana being sold in Boston . . . That is, through illicit channels . . . When you buy some brands of bird-seed, half of what you buy is the seed of cannabis indica, of Mexican hemp—two other official names for marijuana . . . And there is no federal law prohibiting the sale of marijuana seed or the leaves of the weed that eventually are mixed with tobacco to form the drugged cigarettes which the addicts call "reefers," or "muggles," or in Harlem, "tea" . . . Marijuana blooms in any climate, and with direction—not so long ago—a sizable patch could have been located not far from the Blue Hills Reservation . . . It has been found closer to vested authority than the Blue Hills, for that matter . . . San Quentin's "garden beautiful" once disclosed a carefully cultivated patch, and in the garden of Joliet prison it once bloomed for a long time before being discovered.

GEORGE HOLLAND

Some Real Dope About Dope:

Marijuana is comparatively cheap and not so popular . . . The addicts start "very low" . . . Its "kick" is the slow exhiliration sort. When its use is mixed with that of alcohol, however, as it often is, the drug gets in its deadly work in speedy time, so that when the user is finally "high," he has lost all sense of values . . . Space, time and distance mean nothing, and there comes a total irresponsibility, lust and the urge toward wilful violence . . . Heroin addicts use marijuana when their favorite drug is beyond their reach . . . A "weed" or "reefer" can be bought for 15 to 25 cents, depending on the market . . . And like heroin, the user can't be sure of the quality of the stuff he buys . . . for heroin is generally "cut." That is one reason that the youth arrested yesterday has a "bad rap" to face . . . In his room, they found a sieve, a quantity of sugar and milk, envelopes to hold the stuff, and stamps to seal the envelope.

When a suspect falls under police surveillance as an "ounce connection" (dealer who sells nothing less than an ounce), there is much excitement . . . Generally these "ounce connections," as well as the minor "pushers" are addicts themselves . . . Well, the unfortunate 17-year youth is neither a big-shot, nor a user . . . He is a subject of immoderate amazement.

But something, police say, he will be asked to explain is his knowledge of the diluting process that disguises $35 worth of heroin as $50 worth of heroin, sugar and milk . . . The value of the stuff, police say also, that they found in the young man's room was $5000 (uncut) . . . That means about 25,000 grains . . .

Last on the Dope:

[illegible]

Once Over Lightly:

Noel Coward's opening at the National Theater, New York, set for November 24, has been sealed with the orchestra seats priced at $11.00 . . . Even at that price, good seats for tomorrow night's performance at the Colonial will be found to be very scarce, if available at all . . . Mrs. Thomas Whiffen, "grand old lady of the stage," is seriously ill at her home in Virginia . . . Ted Robbins "Cape Coddlers" are at the Monarch Club . . . Lieut. Vernon A. MacAuley (Theatrical Post), A. L., will hold its dinner-dance Tuesday, November 24, at the Copley-Plaza . . . Benny Rubin is visiting with his mother . . . Benedict Fitzgerald and Eddie Stephan, the photographers, have made their first sales at Lost Boston . . .

Leo Walters' first production at Levaggi's Flamingo Room, scheduled for a week from next Monday, will have Ruby Bundy's Band and a line of girls . . . 'The Mutineer' for Errol Flynn

Los Angeles, Nov. 6—Don't for a moment think that Jack Warner isn't following up Errol Flynn's hit in "The Charge of the Light Brigade" with a smash program. From New York comes word that he has just purchased "The Mutineer," a short story by Allan Vaughan Elston, a typical Flynn romantic adventure yarn, and it's to be produced with all the trimmings.

But before this story or "The White Rajah," Errol's own compositions, is put on the screen the thrill - loving Flynn plans to leave his electric - lighted penthouse for the wilds of Africa. It seems that Errol has been invited by Paul Muni to join him on the latter's hunting trip. Muni is now in Nairobi, British East Africa, and Errol is planning to sail for there on the Normandie the 21st of this month. I never knew Errol was a hunter, but he is reported to be very much interested in the sport.

A new Scandinavian threat for Garbo and Dietrich has landed on our shores. Samuel Goldwyn brought her here a month ago and has been testing her in secret for the role of Ninotchka in "Ninotchka," the Russian story by Melchior Lengyel. He has been interested in her ever since seeing her in "Katrina" in Sweden. Her name is Greta Lindstedt and she is twenty-two years old. She is married to a Swedish newspaper man and has a baby girl. I never heard of her. I wonder if she answers to the description of the Garbo type. To look at her photograph like the proverbial million. All of which doesn't mean that Lady Ashley won't have a part in "Marco Polo." She will play a small role opposite Gary Cooper but the more important Chinese princess is to be played by two actresses to be announced soon. I don't see [illegible]

No Escape!

Reader's Story of Dramatic Dash From Roaring Flames

By FLOYD GIBBONS

FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY:

No escape! Those are the two toughest words in the English language. It's all right for you boys and girls to laugh about the adventures you've gotten into—and out of. But what if there just ISN'T any way out?

What if you are faced, as was Stanley Hampson of New York city, with a red terror on the one hand and a black terror on the other, and with no way of avoiding at least one of them?

What would you do if a raging inferno was creeping up behind you, and the only way to beat those roaring flames was to leap from a window as I fell four stories to the hard city pavement?

I hope you don't know the answer to that one. But Stan Hampson did. And it was a thing of horror and despair as he [illegible] fighting a tale of horror and despair as [illegible] fe[illegible]

STOCK BUYERS,

Business EXHIBIT Faith

By B. C. FORBES

Cheerfulness has characterized the stock market following the election. Utilities at first shivered, but yesterday they showed signs of overcoming their fright.

"Wall Street," which loves far-fetched, often fantastic, explanations for every dip and rise, is attributing the animated buying of stocks to prospects of "inflation." The government, 'tis reasoned, will continue to spend billions more than income, thus tending to raise the general price level, the cost of living

Then, a continuous stream of extra dividends is looked for during the balance of the year, to [illegible]

BOSTON AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Moving the show date ahead from Winter to Fall last year proved to be a highly successful experiment. It marked the beginning of a plan to level off the peaks and valleys of employment. It benefited both buyers and workers. It helped to stabilize the rubber, steel and accessory industries. Automobile workers now have almost uninterrupted employment from one year's end to the other.

This year, again, thousands will buy new cars in the Fall. Thousands will flock to the Boston show to see the latest products of the genius of the engineers. New designs! New ideas! New motoring thrills! New comforts! A new car makes an ideal Christmas gift.

HOLY CROSS-COLGATE—About Civil War time a man named Samuel Colgate mixed some smelly chemicals with hog fat and created a toilet soap known as Cashmere Bouquet. Pretty ladies loved the seductive scent and whiskery gents married the pretty ladies who forced the whiskery gents to shave and shampoo. The unions thus formed by mutual love for the same odor, begat progeny who were taught to bathe and brush their teeth. So that Colgate's lucky laboratory smell altered the whole complexion of national life.

HARVARD VIRGINIA—Thomas Jefferson, patron political saint of the Democratic fundamentalists who failed to unhorse Harvard's Franklin D. Roosevelt in the last national election, founded the U. of Virginia during his spare moments after the War of 1812. The use of Jefferson's political motto, "Resistance to Tyrants is Obedience to God" by the party's secessionists before November 3's ballot, made the New Deal Democrats pretty huffy. Hence Roosevelt's Harvard to knock the stuffing out of Jefferson's Virginia.

BOSTON UNIVERSITY-RUTGERS—Since ascending the heights of athletic purity in late years there has been more "dying for dear old Rutgers" than occurred during the barbaric days when wealthy Rutgers alumni frisked the bushes for schoolboy bulls and shipped them prepaid for football duty. Rutgers is tiptoeing through the lilies now, a wreath of virtue in its hair, thinking wistfully of the days when grizzlies like Paul Robeson, the All-America end, concert baritone and Shakespearean actor, wowed the biggest and best. On the other hand B. U.'s old sanctity under the monstration of Dean Frederick Rand Rogers, has recently detoured toward B.; Tune, and the collision tomorrow of two bodies moving in opposite directions should be terrific. One ballot for B. U.'s first historic victory over Rutgers and the first time since 1921 that a B. U. team has won four victories.

UNBEATEN WALTHAM TO TACKLE MEDFORD

VICTORY Viewed as CERTAIN

The undefeated and untied Waltham high eleven invade the Fulton street grounds tomorrow to meet a down-hearted, injury-riddled Medford High team.

From all reports, the fans will also meet Waltham's new halfback, Steve Flannery, who will team up with Johnny Krol. With this combination, added to the strength already in the line-up, there is small hope of stopping the Watch City entry.

Eddie Brooks has been experimenting with all sorts of backfield combinations in hopes of finding some one to replace the injured Jim Dwyer and Les Bennett. Medford's recent loss to Chelsea after the boys had completely outplayed the Red Devils, has the team in a low state of mind.

Brockton High, having recuperated from that Salem deadlock, travels to Fitchburg to meet Clarence Amiotte's sixteen. The Rose City team will attempt to regain the prestige lost in the last tilt by running up a big score against the home team which is no slouch on the gridiron.

Cambridge Latin will attempt to stop Malden from returning to the drive for the state title. This tilt will present a fine passing duel between Wally Boutreau and Charlie O'Rourke but the Golden Tornado should easily come out on top of a large score.

The undefeated Everett will play host to an in-and-out Revere team. The Gildea clan should welcome the visitors with open arms after their tough battles of the past few weeks, for the tough campaigning has worn down the team.

Haverhill is riding in high gear after that Quincy pasteway and expects to keep the slate clean with a distinct victory over Worcester North. Leo Thomas, flashy fullback, is clicking in on the backfield scorers with a fine chance of adding to his points against the invaders.

A triumphant Salem team meets Lynn English at the Bertram Field bog. The Broderick boys have high hopes of sweeping the rest of their schedule, with the Lynn entry as the first victim.

Raiders Ready To Raid Purple

Wolf Pack Fails To Worry B. C.

RAIDERS Made Choices At 10 to 8

By WALTER KILEY

The hocus-pocus, razzle-dazzle boys from the Chenango Valley arrive on the Holy Cross scene tomorrow.

The home town of Worcester, purple in its sympathies and loyalties, seethes with excitement on the eve of Colgate's triumphant entry. A packed house of 24,000 is assured.

For the past 10 days Gene Flynn, a master shifter-outer, has been passing duests through the wickets of the Holy Cross A. A., the recipients smiling outwardly at the colorful prospects of the morrow. There are still pastebooards to be had but the supply is fast dwindling.

Oddly enough, in view of the respective season records, the Red Raiders have been installed 10 to 8 favorites.

Wreck Army

On that final 30 minutes of the Colgate-Army ball game, wherein the Ithaca Red Horde broke out in offensive fury, hangs the visitors' selection.

For two full periods, Colgate sprung laterals and hidden ball plays, reverses and passes which bamboozled the experts who claim that Colgate has finally arrived as one of the season's greats.

Having been wrong so often before, we may be pardoned for again differing from the quoted dopesters.

In the first place the Purple, barely beaten out by Temple and with the memories of an 18-game undefeated streak broken, will be all the more dangerous.

The Crusaders will be on the short end of the odds for the first time this fall, and thereby should be fighting all the harder.

At best it's doubtful whether or

DOBIE Team Picked At 10 to 7

By JOE CASHMAN

Gloomy Gil Dobie is weeping uncommonly well even for a superior weeper.

So there is much joy among Boston College followers, and they'll lay you 10-7 on their favorites this eve of the Eagles-North Carolina State tilt at the Fens.

The close student of football may not be interested in either of the aforementioned facts, but he is keenly interested in this particular contest.

He's still pretty much in the dark as to the real class of this Maroon and Gold outfit.

He knows the Heights warriors looked immense against Michigan State. He also knows it was amazing that they shaped up so well against such a formidable foe, considering that it was but their fifth game under a new coach teaching a system entirely foreign at Newton.

Crucial Test

Thus he reserves judgment as to whether that performance was on the level or just a flash.

He's counting on tomorrow furnishing the answer.

Should the B. C. boys gain their first major victory under Dobie at the expense of the visiting Wolf Pack, they'll become odds-on favorites to romp up to the Holy Cross game and they'll have to be conceded the stoutest sort of a chance in the annual Jesuit classic.

The Eagles have been impressive in their workouts all week. Except for Captain Al Pansony, veteran guard, they're all in good shape. They have every reason to feel confident.

North Carolina will be making its first local appearance. Yet, in action, the visitors should look familiar.

They're coached by "Hunk" Anderson, former Notre Dame star and mentor, which means that offensively and defensively they go through their paces in about the same fashion as Michigan State, coached by Charlie Bachman, another ex-South Bender.

The Eagles must guard against over-confidence, however. The record of the Wolf Pack to date is nothing to write home about, showing defeats at the hands of Davidson, Wake Forest, Manhattan and North Carolina University and wins only against V. P. I., Rildon and Furman.

Luck Fails

It's reported roundly, though, that the visitors could have won the Manhattan tilt and really put up the stiffest sort of argument against the powerful Tarheels last Saturday.

Like B. C., the Andersonians have been showing improvement in every start. Their principal weakness appears to be a tendency to falter in the closing minutes of a fray. They're always bad news starting out.

Dobie has stressed these points. He feels there's little danger of large heads wrecking his charges.

One reason for this is that for the first time this year he has two complete lines and backfields available. If one eleven doesn't click he can substitute another without a regret.

The Eagles, it is hinted, will uncover a new and devastating offense, featuring bewildering pass plays, on the morrow.

Cambridge Elks Plan Grid Night

The annual football night, held under the auspices of the Cambridge Lodge of Elks, will be held a week from tomorrow night at the lodge rooms, Central square, Cambridge. The leading coaches of the East will attend.

SCHOOLBOY JOTTINGS

Tom O'Leary of Cathedral high school has scored a touchdown in each of his team's games. He kept this record intact by scoring on the end of a pass against St. Mary's of Brookline in the final period yesterday.

The Boston school committee postponed the doubleheader at the Bee Hive yesterday because of the treacherous footing.

Another twin bill is scheduled for the Boston schools this afternoon as Latin meets B. C. High and English meets Mechanic Arts.

The Junior Eagles have their hearts set in tripping up the Fitzgerald clan and should be able to do it.

Coach "Dutch" Holland of Mechanic Arts has been grooming his Artisan eleven to down English. Holland would rather win that game than any other on the schedule.

Somerville high school should break into the win column again tonight when the St. Peter's eleven invades Dilboy Field for a floodlight game.

Green Completes Columbia Prep

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 6—Dartmouth concluded Columbia game preparations on Memorial Field in a long workout that lasted until the "ghost" balls were brought into play.

The Big Green coaches spent considerable time tightening up the pass defense of their first two backfields as the Jayvee squad tested the results.

The Big Green linemen had the stiffest workout on the squad with Harry Ellinger calling on a third team to call the "Columbia" plays.

Offensive preparation consisted of running two elevens through the moveable dummies held by the scrubs during the final hour of the daily session.

Purdue Stands in Way Of Fordham Eleven

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Venturing life and limb in the performance of duty and expecting no quarter, this corner goes into its weekly spin, bounces neatly off the side cushion and, still whirling dizzily, comes up with the following non-political remarks on this week's football program:

FORDHAM-PURDUE: Those in the one the Rams have got to win if their auditory organs are to be tuned in on the same wave-length as the annual flow that bid Seasive blistering games with St. Mary's and Pitt, how-ever, have chipped off some of the granite of that Fordham line. The corner likes Purdue in a game the "breaks" may decide.

ALABAMA-TULANE: Barring a tie, this is where one or the other of these unbeaten Arlucs rides off the rails. Tulane's defense looks the more vulnerable, but the Green wave's fleet backs add up to potent scoring power. Tulane, narrowly.

NAVY-NOTRE DAME: Sooner or later, this Navy outfit is going to cash in on its undoubted strength on the ground and through the air. On a smash that tomorrow's the day for the Tuxis awakening, Navy.

PENN-MICHIGAN: The worst of Michigan's home while intersectional rivals but Penn after more than two years of frustration, finally seems to have located the victory trail. Penn.

Iowa on Spot

NORTHWESTERN — WISCONSIN: Northwestern can afford a big letdown after the Minnesota victory and still hold this one safe.

MINNESOTA-IOWA: Iowa a sacrifice to the Gophers' wrath over the fracturing of their long winning streak.

STANFORD — WASHINGTON: Stanford's on the way back, but this determined eleven with Washington to the bitter end.

SOUTHERN METHODIST-TEXAS A. and M.: The Mustangs of S. M. U. to burdle another South-west Conference rival.

BOSTON COLLEGE — NORTH CAROLINA STATE: Boston College by a nose.

DARTMOUTH-COLUMBIA: Columbia, it appears, takes the slipper home to Hanover, but for its third defeat.

HARVARD — VIRGINIA: Harvard.

HOLY CROSS-COLGATE: One of the toughest of them all so far. If doubtful if Colgate can rise to the heights it reached in toppling Army, and this faint nod goes to Holy Cross.

MANHATTAN-KENTUCKY: Reverting to the old Kentucky.

NEW YORK UNIV.-CARNEGIE: Carnegie's defense looks too rugged for the Violets.

PITTSBURGH-STATE: Pitt.

PRINCETON-CORNELL: The Cornells make too many mistakes but they're tough. Princeton, after a struggle.

WEST VIRGINIA — GEORGE TOWN: The air-minded Mountaineers to run Georgetown's undefeated record.

Brown Out

YALE-BROWN: No home for Brown here.

DETROIT-BUCKNELL: Detroit.

WYOMING-MONTANA STATE: Wyoming.

Donovan Real Test for Gus

In his drive to regain the world's title again, Gus Sonnenberg, dynamiter of wrestling in meeting no soft touch in Jack Donovan, 225-pound Adonis, in the feature bout of Eddie Quinn's mat show in Mechanics Building, Tuesday night.

Donovan, who is making rapid strides in grappledom, is confident that he can hurl the veteran Gus off throne by the popular former Dartmouth football hero.

It is reported that Sonnenberg will have his troubles with the "airplane head scissors," favorite combination of the blond Adonis, but ex-champions has squeezed out of many a tight place against the nation's leading matmen.

Returning from a tour of Australia and New Zealand, where he met with success, the Kelly Kicker ace has headed East confident that he will wade through the grapplers that stand in his way to a title contest.

Quinn plans to offer Steve Casey a bike purse to meet Sonnie, if the former champion is successful in disposing of Donovan.

Final Tilt

BREMER KIDNAP DRAMA REVEALED

Keating-Holden Gang Breakup Checked by Nash

By MELVIN PURVIS
CHAPTER XX

Times have changed over a period of thirty years, but St. Paul never lost its reputation as a "good" town. Criminals continued to congregate there, and on one occasion or another almost all of the big-time hoodlums of the Middle West paid it a visit.

It is only fair to add that civic rebellion has since done much to clean up St. Paul.

During one interval, however, the city's reputation was such that when the wife of a prominent mo-

Melvin Purvis
One of the robbers. Nothing more than a reputation indelibly written on the police blotter in history would have so definitely indicated that this was the gang's favorite place to fence the jewels and the robbers.

St. Paul in 1930 and 1931 was the headquarters of the Keating-Holden gang of bank and payroll robbers. Keating and Holden were originally Chicago boys and it was through the agency of Frank Nash that they were introduced to Ted Bachop and Alvin Karpis, both of whom had been recent inmates of the Kansas City Penitentiary. One day they met in a railway pool-hall and escaped with $135,000. Ultimately they were sent to Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary for the crime but after a brief sojourn there they managed to escape.

In St. Paul they rallied around them a band of expert and highly talented criminals. Frank Nash, later killed in the Kansas City massacre, was one member of this gang. Harvey Bailey, Verne Miller, and Shotgun George Ziegler were others.

The crowd changed often, but the basic characteristics continued. The hoodlums were comfortable enough in so delightful an asylum as St. Paul. There they lolled about in comfort, spent money liberally, and even patronized the golf courses.

Caught on Links

The Keating-Holden gang began to break up when those two leaders were captured by police and Special Agents on a golf-course in Kansas City. Their capture culminated a search that had preceded fruitlessly over many months, and Chicago was not without its angle to this case.

During the first part of 1932, while I was in charge of the Oklahoma City office, I proceeded to Chicago to assume the duties as the head of that office temporarily during the absence of the Special Agent in Charge, who was on a special assignment in Honolulu. There were some peaceful interludes during my stay of several months in Chicago at that time, some of our many jobs was to seek the apprehension of certain fugitives.

Our activities included the observation of many points, and we frequented South Side Club, previously been associates of Keating and Holden. They lived at a boarding house on South Side Club, and were night club entertainers, one at the Paramount Club and the other at the Minuet Club in Chicago.

At the time it seemed of paramount importance to keep a close eye on these two women, although nothing ever came of it. We frequented a restaurant in the Morrison Hotel which adjoined the one nemployed by these women. We heard many interesting parts of which indicated that they were acquainted with Keating and Holden. Once while they were off we searched their rooms and found among their effects very good photographs of Keating and Holden.

Copy Photos

We already had photographs of these men but when a law enforcement official has never seen the object of his search, he cannot have too many different pictures of him, and so we determined to obtain copies of these two. We could not take them with us as the women would undoubtedly miss them and become suspicious and make the search following them a more difficult one.

We borrowed a camera, flash-light bulbs and films from the Northwestern University Crime Detection Laboratory, set up the camera in the adjoining room, and waited for the women to leave. We posted men in the hall outside the apartment, and downstairs in the lobby and on the street, so that we could receive word if the women returned unexpectedly.

Another Special Agent and I rushed into the room, obtained the photographs, placed them on the wall, and snapped them. We had just put them back into the room when the women returned. We had copies of these photographs made and distributed to all officers engaged in the search.

Our copies of these women was probably the hardest part of the work in searching for Keating and Holden in Chicago. It was below zero weather, the streets were icy, and the men covering these places suffered a great deal. I redoubled ed to relieve them as frequently as the number of men assigned to the Chicago office would permit, and I visited each post frequently for the purpose of determining the progress being made.

Pair Captured

No progress was ever made in Chicago, as a matter of fact, unless our activities succeeding those by Keating and Holden went to Kansas City and were apprehended there. At this time Fred and Ma Barker and Alvin Karpis were living in an apartment in Kansas City but they moved out immediately when they heard of the capture of Keating and Holden.

Co-operation of the Keating-Holden gang, after the capture of the two leaders, was checked through the agency of Frank Nash who introduced two young criminals into the mob—a rather evasive meeting. They were Alvin Karpis, both of whom were inmates of the Kansas State Penitentiary.

These two and Shotgun George Ziegler picked up the remnants of the old gang and formed a new one. They continued to use St. Paul as a headquarters for their operations, but in the later months of their suzerainty they were not particularly loyal to the tradition that peace must be kept in a "good" town.

Edward George Bremer, banker and brewer of St. Paul, was kidnaped on January 17, 1934. He drove his child to school at about 8:30 a.m. Returning, he stopped for a red light at an intersection, and there was engaged in an argument.

$200,000 Asked

Several men climbed to the running board of his car and he was struck over the head. He remembered nothing more. Later his automobile was found on the outskirts of St. Paul. There was blood on it.

I was one of those who worked on the investigation of the Bremer case which finally found its central point of activity in the Chicago office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Bremer was held a prisoner for three weeks. The first message from the kidnapers was a demand for $100,000 ransom. No friends.

Then was an announcement that a $200,000 ransom was necessary. Another message from the snatchers was a note placed in a milk bottle and hurled through the glass door of the home of an acquaintance of the Bremer family. The federal men, following our usual policy, consulted with the family and agreed to take no step which might interfere with the safe return of the kidnaped man.

Finally, the instructions for the delivery of the ransom money were received. An intermediary was to go to certain corner. They said the instructions "you will find a Ford coupe with a Shell oil sign on it. Enter there, drive to the next straight ahead, and drive until you see a red flashlight flashing. Then you should be prepared to turn over the money."

The instructions were followed by a hoax later. Bremer was released near Rochester, Minn., the town where the famous Mayo Brothers hospitals are located.

Bremer was taken there in a car, wearing goggles which were fitted tightly on his head over the glass. He had no knowledge of the topography of the region he had traversed, and his payment of finding his captors seemed difficult indeed.

FORD DEALERS VISIT DETROIT

Ford dealers of New England—217 strong—arrived in Detroit by special train today for the preview of the new Ford.

The 14-car special which pulled out of South Station yesterday afternoon carried nearly 87 per cent of all Ford dealers in the Southern branch territory to the factory presentation of the new 1937 Ford cars. Each car on the train, including two diners, a lounge car and observation car was specially equipped with a regulation Ford radio and with a movie projector and entertainment en route.

The New England dealers will join 7000 Ford dealers from all parts of this country and Canada in the largest get-together of its kind in the industry. None of a longer record of service than James Lehan, Stoughton Ford dealer since 1904, who made the trip.

A. B. Pease, New England regional manager for Ford, led the delegation from this district.

The party will return on the special, leaving Detroit Saturday afternoon and reaching Boston Sunday morning. With a pause at Niagara Falls Saturday night for a view of the falls illuminated.

The Voters Prefer Men To Party Labels

REGARDLESS of what took place behind party lines before the election, voters Tuesday stepped across lines and supported names rather than labels.

The "split ballot" was the rule of the day. And no victorious candidate could say he owed his election wholly to either Republicans or Democrats.

In all the smoke and din of battle, one thing was clear: The voters demanded the man. And if he measured up to their specifications, they voted for him and elected him.

A generation ago, in the day of the "straight ballot" and staunch loyalty to party, there could not have been this independence of opinion.

A man usually was all Republican or all Democrat. The thought of mingling the two was abhorrent to him.

Today, however, with greater emphasis on politics in newspapers, a mere party designation is not enough.

The party may get a man on the ballot, but it is the man who wins the election.

THIS independence on the part of the electorate is a healthy American spirit, and as long as it endures, democracy will survive on this side of the Atlantic.

More than this, it is a step forward in the direction of better government, for the people who place names above parties will insist that the men they elect also place themselves above parties.

"Always a Hard Worker"

FRANCIS E. KELLY, Lieutenant-Governor-Elect, ought to be an inspiration to every ambitious boy who wants to make good in life.

Eighteen years ago, Francis was selling newspapers on the streets of Dorchester. His father was dead and there were younger brothers and sisters who had to be supported.

By diligent effort he earned his way through high school and Suffolk Law School and became a successful practicing attorney.

Perhaps the best tribute among all the hundreds that today come to him by letter, telephone and telegraph is his mother's:

"You were always a hard worker."

Life Not Always Precious

TO most people life is a precious thing, and seldom does one find a man willing to die without resorting to every measure that promises an extension of his stay on earth.

Unfortunately, this does not apply to everyone. For instance, press reports tell us of the Randolph, Vt., Republican who shot himself because of the Democratic landslide and the Culver City, Cal., woman who gladly followed her pet dog in death.

There will be other elections and other dogs, but neither this man nor woman will see them.

Winter Heralds Approach

REPORTS of snow at Northfield and Burlington in Vermont and at Greenville, Me., herald the approach of winter.

We may have our doubts about the outcomes of elections or the scores of football games, but we need never doubt the certainty of ice, snow and freezing winds. They come, even though we seldom want them.

It is well to take a hint from the Weather Man and prepare homes for winter. To do so is to avoid needless regrets.

When Enemies Become Friends

The picture, taken in Chicago, shows a police dog enjoying the comforts of his dressmaker mistress' salon. With the dog, perfectly content and happy, is Richard, the dressmaker's pet canary.

A year ago these strange companions were natural enemies. More than once the dog cast hungry eyes on the feathered meal up in the cage. And Mr. Canary poured down his sourest notes on the "furry pest" on the floor.

But persistent training brought the two together. There grew up a mutual respect for the other's right to live until, finally, the pair were inseparable, eating together, playing together and sleeping together.

You look at this picture and you say, "Why worry about a silly dog and bird. What do they mean to me?"

They mean a great deal, this "silly dog and bird." In the association that this picture shows there is a moral for you with your big, intelligent brain, for your neighbors and for your community.

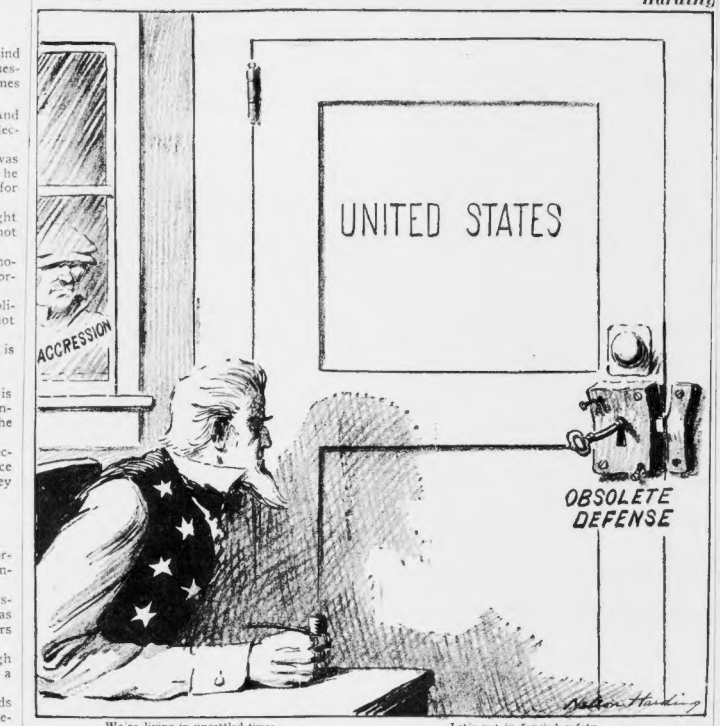
We all have our enemies. And though, unlike the dog, we never think of them as meals, we do often cordially dislike them.

Perhaps if we made up our minds to know the other fellow, to let him show us his way of looking at things, we, too, could find friends among our enemies.

That is the lesson of the picture.

Change That Lock

By Nelson Harding



We're living in unsettled times,
Our house holds tempting gold,
And if intruders should appear,
That lock would scarcely hold.

Let's not in fancied safety
Await aggression's knock
Before we place upon the door
A strong and modern lock.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

This isn't a sob column. Heart throbs are not our pet palaver. But human nature is—and never is human nature trickier than when using love as an alibi. Therefore, today, Henry crashes the space with a problem which hits nine-tenths of us where we live.

"All's fair in love and war"—you've heard that old axiom, Sos. Henry. Quite recently, in fact, for

Elsie Robinson

The Wife flipped it at him when Henry caught her going through his private papers. Just what kind of a deal was that—demanded Henry, considerably burnt.

"Perfectly Dandy," said the wife. "What's bothering you? Haven't I a right to look through my own husband's papers? And even if I haven't—she snuffled, turning on the usual bee technique—"all's fair in love and war! Besides, it's for your own good.

"Every wife knows what's good for her husband better than he does. Men are saps! Maybe you're a little mad now, but some day you'll thank me for protecting your interests. What's more, you will.

But Henry wasn't listening. He was too busy wondering about this whole business of love, which he'd always taken for granted.

FAMILIAR QUESTIONS

People snooping, lying, meddling, messing your life up to suit themselves—was that really a sign of love? Or, despite their divine lies, were they simply selfish bullies, determined to get their own way regardless, with no more right to interfere than utter strangers? And should they be treated accordingly?

Familiar questions, aren't they? We've all asked them. They've raised Cain with the human race since Eve first offered Adam that apple "for his own good"—and Adam, with more spunk than gallantry, promptly put the blame where it belonged.

Family interference—how far should it go? How far should we let it go?

Love—there's the oldest cover-up for senseless, troublesome mamas who read their children's mash notes . . . peevish papas who bully the whole family into accepting their matters of life, whether it fits 'em or not . . . convinced, sweetheartie, always trying to make the other fellow over . . . scheming mates and scandal - mongering friends, they all use love to rationalize their autocratic habits, their cocksure and desire to dominate. Then, when cornered in some pantywaist moment, they cry, "All's fair in love and war!" And really believe it.

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE

Love is the highest degree of devotion—sincere or assumed—justify such invasion of another person's life? IT DOES NOT.

The right to be ourselves . . . to think our own thoughts, make our own decisions, follow our own tastes—above all, the right to our own privacy—these are more than rights, they are basic and sacred rights . . . a necessary condition for our development. We ask it of love up to a certain self-respecting middle—unless such rights are exercised and respected. And that goes for the child of eight or youth of 18, as well as the adult of 80.

And the fact that said snooping is performed by A Mother's Gentle Hands or A Wife's Adoring Heart matters not a whit.

Bible Text: "Trust in the Lord and wait patiently for Him."—Psalms 37:7.
Suggested by the Rev. John E. Collier, Methodist Church, Wakefield.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

New York, Nov. 6—Thoughts while strolling. Midst the world confusion this fancy—Somewhere there must be a placid blue lake scene, unruffled, with the snow white swans floating silently by. A new face for the cafe songstress: Gertrude Lawrence over from London.

Look alikes: Lorenz Hart and Mayor La Guardia. Those boys around the automats who try to look like Gregory Raff in their one-flight-up togs. Just when I think the world has no more shocks, Percy Crosby will come along with a pip of a "Skippy." And the sun shines again.

O. O. McIntyre

Rudy Vallee ducked a lot of sniggers chucking that first name, Hubert. What became of Winnie Lightner? Social comedy note: All the Park avenue folk suddenly discover they are living upstairs over stores. Never hear any of those Dorothy Parker fast ones any more.

For my money, Frank Craven to make any stage role seem natural. Funny that recent cartoon of the swordfish putting on a fedora because Hemingway had sailed to other waters. One word description of Mussy Patty Bouncey, Bill Silverman, Silent Young Owner of Variety, Bill waiter, etc.

Add Sears Reed. Thyra Samter Winslow without her Dum Dum. Joseph Hergesheimer's fascinating and putting front teeth. If I have to be run down by a truck, I'll take one of Carlin's cute delivery guards. Jay Gould stuff. They still stand out front and gawk at the Astor.

Somehow this sign on upper Lenox avenue in the Black Belt struck me as something or other: "Harlem Rainbow." And a little further north is the Ali Baba Tavern and the Girley Pinley Beauty Shoppe.

Many familiar faces Americans used to see around the Place Vendome at the 101 "social room." Rumplemayer's, Claire and Sherry's may now be seen in Hollywood. All that's needed is white-coated pink-cheeked Frank Maier awaiting the order for the fine Parisian picture. Among Paris regulars now transplanted on the west coast are Ruth Pignatelli, Florence Walton, Grace Field, Erskine Gwynne, Hank Wales, Basil Woon, Charles Grayson and many, many more.

Most theatrical folk after the play will be found suppering in the grills, snack bars and restaurants on Central Park South these days. This strip from Broadway to Fifth avenue has become a strolling ground for players somewhat in the manner of the old Rialto on Fourteenth street. A reporter finds that 70 per cent of legitimate players are living in the hotels and apartment houses in the area. It's also the New York residing place of a number of fellow Americans. Tenney, former heavyweight champion, says:

"They're all armed to the teeth over there and it's a darned good thing. You don't see brawls in a theater's camp for the simple reason that everybody is in shape, and that's the way it is in Europe today."

Nations don't go to war any more for the joy of fighting. While they all are prepared to defend themselves, they have to keep the peace.

We need to do three things to insure that we do not become embroiled in any European war which may break out in the future. First, we must make a practice of minding our own business. Then we must make ourselves so strong that no nation will dare attack us. And we must maintain that defensive strength.

Over in Berlin, Gustaf Winter committed suicide after 'unfavorable developments' in his trial on a charge of organizing a political party. Under the German law, the people are permitted to have but one political party—Hitler's Nazi Party. That seems strange to us here in the United States where anybody can organize any kind of a political party he pleases and run for any office he chooses. But dictatorships will not tolerate opposition. They arrogate to themselves the power to decide what the people want or should want.

Governor Fitzgerald of Michigan will make good use of the power of clemency if he pardons the man known in Chicago as Howard H. Law who escaped from prison 19 years ago. During the years he has been a fugitive, Law, it appears, has been living a decent, honorable, industrious life. Governor Fitzgerald is quoted as saying that "if this man has made the splendid record in private life that newspaper stories indicate, I see no purpose in returning him from Chicago to Michigan." There is common sense, and a deep sense of justice, but no maudlin sympathy in that position.

Germany's New Drive

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

Great nations shift and dodge these days like a quarterback in a broken field. We now find food prices rising, because, when we had too much of everything, we turned to the fantastic device of killing live stock and plowing under crops. In Germany, they're eating whale meat because they have too little meat raised on land.

Edwin C. Hill

"The monkeys have no tails in Zamboanga—the monkeys have no tails, they were bitten off by whales, etc." The silly old song makes just as much sense as present-day economics.

In their workmanlike way, the Germans start a national campaign to make the people like whale meat. Dr. Herman Reisle, head of the National Nutritive Guild, gets up a grand whale meat luncheon at a gilded hotel in Berlin. The generals and the great panjandrums of finance and officialdom are there to address eloquent apostrophes to resurgent Germany, to the undying and unconquerable spirit of the new fatherland, to Adolph Hitler, to Barbarossa—the Red Beard—and to whale meat.

With psaltery and harp, battalions of poets throughout the realm, no longer ragged roadside bards, but proud troops of the propaganda corps, sweep their heartstrings in ecstatic accord to hymn whale meat—just whale meat.

WHERE, OH, WHERE!

Where, oh where in this planetary squirrel cage is there a gusty Rabelais, or an acidulous Swift to rib this world delirium into a semblance of sanity. And I'm not pooling on Germany. Let its remember that Milt Gross' Count Screwloose was a critic of the American scene.

The old peg-leg skipper who chased "Moby Dick," the white whale, probably would have landed in a concentration camp if he had been working for totalitarian Germany. Just ramming around the South Seas as he did was a wasteful and dilatory business. The Germans would have invented an undersea white whale detector with a sensitive motor dial, and would have located "Moby Dick" at 4367 meters and plugged him with a violating critique of our whole civilization, most adequately scourged by the German's own Oswald Spengler.

His great book, "The Downfall of the Western Peoples," is the pronouncement of doom as a nation which gets too far away from the soil and which puts too much faith in laboratories and machines. It is interesting to note that Pearl Buck's book, "The Good Earth," and Spengler's book were contemporaneous.

Sometimes one is afraid that the Chinese peasant, who knows the feel of soft earth between his toes, may possibly be around with the rest of us have blown each other to bits.

Germany will make good use of the power of clemency if he pardons the man known in Chicago as Howard H. Law who escaped from prison 19 years ago. During the years he has been a fugitive, Law, it appears, has been living a decent, honorable, industrious life. Governor Fitzgerald is quoted as saying that "if this man has made the splendid record in private life that newspaper stories indicate, I see no purpose in returning him from Chicago to Michigan." There is common sense, and a deep sense of justice, but no maudlin sympathy in that position.

CHEMICAL VEGETABLES

There is a festive Dr. Boetcheling. Dr. Bergius already has made meat out of sulphur and sawdust. His is the process for liquefying coal and making Germany independent of gasoline imports. It was Germany's scientists who developed the amazing earthless vegetable growing, now being tried out at Summit, N. J.

In a kitchen rig not much bigger than an icebox you conjure up lettuce, tomatoes, radishes, onions or anything you want, through light and temperature controls and catalytic chemical processes. They are really producing edible food in Germany in this manner.

We all remember how the Germans worked up warm and serviceable paper suits in war time. We also remember how Germany, isolated, had no nitrates and how she made them. The great scientist, Haber, pulled them out of thin air, as no man had ever done before. Germany was on making her explosives and fought the rest of the world to a standstill.

There is, of course, nothing funny about a great and gifted nation being driven to desperate extremities to get food, fats and raw materials. The Gargantuan moment of the whole business. In a world of prolific abundance, isn't limited to Germany alone. It is a devastating critique of our whole civilization, most adequately scourged by the German's own Oswald Spengler.

His great book, "The Downfall of the Western Peoples," is the pronouncement of doom as a nation which gets too far away from the soil and which puts too much faith in laboratories and machines. It is interesting to note that Pearl Buck's book, "The Good Earth," and Spengler's book were contemporaneous.

Sometimes one is afraid that the Chinese peasant, who knows the feel of soft earth between his toes, may possibly be around with the rest of us have blown each other to bits.

It is a mistake to think that because some Navy leaders are of the agitator type all of them are trouble makers. Most of them try to avoid strikes. It is to the credit of officials of the International Seamen's Union that they endeavored to talk their men out of starting a sit-down strike at New York city in sympathy with the walkout of maritime workers on the Pacific coast.

California has a system which other states would do well to investigate and consider. Before election, there was mailed out to each registered voter a sample ballot, a card giving the location of the voters' polling place, and a pamphlet containing the text of all of the 23 measures upon which the people were to vote, with the principal arguments for and against each measure. In states where a system of "legal publication" is relied upon to inform the voters about constitutional amendments and other measures submitted, the chances are that not one person out of 100 fully understands what is being voted on.

Informing the voters, to the extent California does, must be expensive. But if a system of that kind "never pays" and keeps the "legal publication" system, the cost probably will a little if any greater. In any event, when the state calls upon its people to pass judgment upon constitutional amendments or initiated or referred laws, it certainly should be obliged to see that every voter is fully advised about what he is to vote on. Nobody can get any intelligent idea of what he is voting on from the titles of amendments printed on the ballot.

That's That

A view of Europe through the eyes of a fighting man who believes in peace is interesting. Back from a trip abroad, General Tunney, former heavyweight champion, says:

"Over there they are not looking for a fight. They are not looking for trouble. They are not looking for war. They are looking for peace. They are looking for it because they have had enough of war.
